In the heart of dear old Emory
Where the sun doth shine,
That is where our hearts are turning
'Round old Emory's shrine.

We will ever sing thy praises,
Sons and daughters true.
Hail we now our Alma Mater,
Hail the Gold and Blue!

Tho' the years around us gather,
Crowned with love and cheer,
Still the memory of Old Emory
Grows to us more dear.

We will ever sing thy praises,
Sons and daughters true.
Hail we now our Alma Mater,
Hail the Gold and Blue!

MARION LUTHER BRITTAIN SERVICE AWARD

The Marion Luther Brittain Service Award is presented each year to two graduating students (one undergraduate and one graduate) from any academic division of the university who are considered to have performed the most “significant, meritorious, and devoted service to Emory University.” Considered the highest honor presented to a student by Emory University, the Brittain Award recognizes two students whose contributions to Emory are outstanding. The award is made under provisions of a gift by the late M. L. Brittain, former president of the Georgia Institute of Technology and alumnus of Emory.

PRANAY MAMILETI 26B Undergraduate Recipient

During his four years as a campus leader, Pranay Mamileti has made a significant impact on student life at Emory.

His contributions stretch across student government, community life, campus health and safety, and beyond. He also excelled in the classroom as a double major in political science and business and as a team captain on the university’s Ben Pius Mock Trial team, earning All-American Attorney honors.

In his junior year, Mamileti served as vice president of the Student Government Association. One of his most important achievements in this role was founding the Peer Advocate Office, an initiative modeled after constituent engagement with representatives in public office. Mamileti led each step of the program’s development, from concept to reality, creating training systems and working with offices across the university to ensure legal compliance. Thanks to his efforts, the initiative is thriving and set up for the future. The office comprises a staff of student volunteers from across all class years, each ready to respond to the everyday needs of their peers — just as Mamileti envisioned.

A member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, Mamileti also championed policies that supported student safety and well-being. He worked with Emory’s Sexual Assault Peer Advocates to host events for student leaders in the campus Greek community to complete sexual-assault prevention training. Under his leadership, more than 400 Emory fraternity and sorority leaders received trauma-informed, empirically grounded training.

Mamileti advocated for students to voice their opinions regarding Emory policies and then made sure university administrators considered their views. As co-chair of the Open Expression Student Committee, he led an effort to collect more than 800 student feedback forms on open expression. He analyzed these suggestions into concrete recommendations, which were presented to university leadership and influenced amendments to the policy.

Through his service as head moderator of Wonderful Wednesday, a beloved Emory tradition that highlights different parts of campus life each week, Mamileti prioritized community and fellowship. He balanced recreational programming with opportunities for education, service, and civic engagement — such as voter registration campaigns that throughout Mamileti’s time at Emory added more than 400 students to Georgia’s voter roll.

His service to Emory will continue to enrich the student experience for years to come.

OMID RAZMPOUR 26MBA 26PHD

Graduate Recipient

Throughout his tenure at Emory, Omid Razmpour has demonstrated an extraordinary commitment to advancing the nursing profession, strengthening the Emory nursing community, and supporting the mission of Emory Healthcare through service-driven scholarship, leadership, and innovation.

As an intensive care nurse during the height of the COVID-19 pandemic, Razmpour witnessed firsthand the profound emotional, operational, and systematic challenges facing bedside nurses. That experience inspired his commitment to improving the conditions in which nurses practice.

He pursued a PhD in nursing from Laney Graduate School and the Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing while also completing an MBA at Goizueta Business School. This combination of scholarship reflects his belief that meaningful change in the field of health care requires both clinical expertise and organizational acumen.

As he gained new knowledge, both in clinical nursing and business, Razmpour immediately applied it. He is leading the development and deployment of an innovative, comprehensive method to support Emory Healthcare's workforce analytics and nursing advocacy efforts.

He developed the RETAIN Framework (Retention, Evaluation, and Turnover Analysis for the Investment in Nursing), a proprietary method to quantify the true financial and operational impacts of nurse turnover. Working in partnership with Emory Healthcare, his team also created the Nursing Workforce Analytics (NWA) platform to transform nursing workforce management from reactive crisis response into proactive, data-driven decision support. The RETAIN Framework and NWA pilot at Emory Healthcare was successful and both are now set for full implementation.

Razmpour's exceptional scholarship garnered recognition far beyond the Emory campus. Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Sloan School of Management invited him to Boston as a visiting PhD student — a rare honor for nursing students nationally. During this appointment, he served as an ambassador for Emory's leadership in nursing research while forging interdisciplinary relationships and strengthening the national conversation on nursing sustainability.

People are the heart of Razmpour's mission, grounded in service to nurses and their patients. He leverages his training in clinical practice and business to create supportive, sustainable environments that nurses need to maintain their well-being and thrive in their careers while also delivering first-rate patient care.

Razmpour's contributions have had a measurable impact on Emory and the broader nursing community, and his influence will continue far beyond his graduation.

EXEMPLARY TEACHER OF THE YEAR AWARD

Chosen by the university president from nominations by the deans on behalf of the United Methodist Church Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

RYAN BONFIGLIO 14PHD

*Professor in the Practice of Old Testament
Executive Director of The Candler Foundry
Candler School of Theology*

Through his teaching and leadership, Ryan Bonfiglio has expanded the reach of Candler School of Theology. Since joining its faculty in 2018, he has also enriched the educational experiences of students with innovative instructional methods and meaningful mentorship.

Bonfiglio is professor in the practice of Old Testament and executive director of The Candler Foundry, which seeks to make seminary-level theological education accessible to everyone.

His innovations include Courses in the Community at the Foundry — classes that help the public deepen their understanding of biblical teachings, theology, spirituality, and leadership. Sometimes, Candler School of Theology students join these courses, completing them for a grade while learning alongside and from a range of non-degree-seeking classmates, including community leaders, artists, activists, churchgoers, and those just curious about faith.

Emory theology students describe Courses in the Community as intellectually rigorous, well-structured, and pedagogically innovative. And many community members who take classes at the Foundry choose to continue their education by enrolling in degree programs at Candler.

An online series developed by Bonfiglio for the Foundry further demonstrates his commitment to expanding learning beyond the classroom. The Three-Minute Bible offers insights about biblical concepts and dynamics through more than 60 short video lessons featuring Candler faculty. The series is available free to the public.

Bonfiglio is also founding director of TheoEd, the Foundry's multicity speaker series bringing together leading thinkers in the church and academy to give TED-style talks on faith and spirituality. In addition to in-person events, the TheoEd website offers free access to videos of the talks and related discussion guides.

For Bonfiglio, expanding educational access is prioritized through these programs and more. In addition to in-person classes, he has taught 18 courses online and three that combine in-person and online learning.

His students applaud Bonfiglio's teaching innovations. His "grading covenants" allow students to choose the grades they will earn based on the amount and type of work they plan to devote to a course, sparking a strong sense of ownership in their learning. Students also laud Bonfiglio's gifts as a mentor and his role as a tireless champion in their academic explorations.

THOMAS JEFFERSON AWARD

Awarded each year to a faculty member or administrative officer for significant service to the university through personal activities, influence, and leadership.

SHERYL HERON

*Professor and Vice Chair for Faculty Equity, Engagement and Empowerment, Department of Emergency Medicine
Associate Dean for Community and Engagement
Associate Director for Education and Training, Injury
Prevention Research Center at Emory
Emory University School of Medicine*

Sheryl Heron has served as a tireless advocate for social justice in medicine and for the well-being of patients and physicians, with work that extends beyond Emory's borders to the national and global levels.

Heron joined the School of Medicine as an injury control fellow in 1996, then joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1997. She added the title of assistant dean of medical education and student affairs in 2007. Since 2020, she has served as vice chair for faculty equity, engagement, and empowerment in the Department of Emergency Medicine, and currently as associate dean for community and engagement in the School of Medicine.

While impressive, those titles don't fully capture the depth of her work.

Heron has served nationally, regionally, and institutionally on more than 100 committees, offering expertise on topics such as cultural humility; diversity, equity, and inclusion; and intimate partner violence. Her current membership in professional organizations includes the American and the Georgia College of Emergency Physicians, the Society for Academic Emergency Medicine, the American Association of Medical Colleges, and the National Medical Association.

Heron's academic and clinical work has centered around the representation and inclusion of marginalized communities and the identification and care of abused women, with an investment in addressing their needs beyond the clinical and research settings. For a decade, she co-chaired Emory's Intimate Partner Violence Working Group, which included representatives from Emory University and Emory Healthcare, and recommended an action plan for addressing the public health concern. Her leadership at the Injury Prevention Research Center at Emory is a continuation from her beginnings 30 years ago as an injury control fellow.

Her work resonates across Georgia as well. Heron has been a leader with organizations such as the Women's Resource Center to End Domestic Violence, the DeKalb County Domestic Violence Task Force, and the Georgia Commission on Family Violence.

Her commitment to equity in medicine has been recognized with more than 30 awards and honors. She has motivated numerous students, residents, staff, and junior faculty to pursue medicine and to stay in — or advance — academic medicine.

Heron's fearlessness and compassion bring people together on challenging topics and help advance public service endeavors. Her ability to see both sides of every situation and approach opposing views with logic and respect inspires others across the Emory community. She is motivated by a love of freedom, a sense of justice, and the capacity to be a follower of truth.

HONORARY DEGREES

EDWARD H. BASTIAN

*Business Innovator, People-Centered Executive,
Civic Catalyst
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa*

Delta Air Lines CEO Ed Bastian is a renowned business leader known for his “people-first” approach that has transformed Atlanta’s hometown airline into one of the world’s most beloved brands.

In 2026, Bastian marks 10 years as CEO of Delta, leading a global workforce of more than 100,000 employees, including almost 40,000 in Georgia. Headquartered near Atlanta’s Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport, Delta serves nearly 200 million travelers per year with destinations in over 50 countries.

A veteran Delta employee of almost 30 years, Bastian joined the company in 1998 as vice president of finance and controller. He became Delta’s chief financial officer in 2005, and in 2007 was appointed to serve as the airline’s president, before becoming CEO in 2016. He has steered the company through the most challenging periods in its history, including 9/11, bankruptcy, and COVID-19.

Bastian’s leadership philosophy is based on the virtuous circle, the belief that if a company takes care of its employees, they take care of the customers, who reward the company with their business and loyalty. He has described his job in five words: “Taking care of our people.”

In 2018, Fortune named Bastian among the world’s 50 greatest leaders, and in 2019, he was elected to the membership of the Council on Foreign Relations. He was honored by his peer CEOs as Chief Executive magazine’s 2023 Chief Executive of the Year and was selected as the 2024 Georgian of the Year by Georgia Trend magazine.

In 2025, when Delta Air Lines celebrated its centennial anniversary — the first US airline to reach such a milestone — Bastian was included on Time’s annual list of the 100 most influential people in the world and received the Tony Jannus Award, one of the airline industry’s highest accolades. In 2026,

Delta ranked No. 11 on Fortune’s rankings of the most admired companies in the world for the third consecutive year and No. 9 on its 100 best companies to work for.

Delta has long been a dedicated partner of Emory, including supporting educational programs at the Goizueta Business School such as the Delta Leadership Coaching Fellows Program; collaborating with Emory’s Office of Global Strategies and Initiatives on efforts like the Free Passport Initiative; and hosting the Emory Clinic at Delta HQ, a clinic staffed with Emory Healthcare providers to deliver health care services to Delta employees. The two organizations share a common mission to advance, serve, and connect humanity.

Edward H. Bastian will be presented by Gareth James, dean of the Roberto C. Goizueta Business School.

RUTH J. SIMMONS

*Education Pioneer, Distinguished Scholar, Ardent Seeker of Justice
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa*

A groundbreaking leader in higher education for decades, Ruth Simmons is president emerita of Prairie View A&M University, Brown University and Smith College. She is only the seventh person in Emory's history to receive both of the university's highest honors: the honorary degree and the President's Medal, which she was awarded in 2006.

Simmons' 2023 memoir, Up Home: One Girl's Journey, recounts her trajectory from her birth in 1945 as the twelfth child of sharecroppers to becoming one of the nation's preeminent educators — inspiring generations of students and faculty.

As president of Smith College from 1995 to 2001, Simmons introduced the first accredited engineering program at an all-women's college. When she left Smith to become president of Brown University, she also became the first Black president of an Ivy League institution.

Simmons led Brown from 2001 to 2012 and was named America's best college president by

Time in 2001. In 2003, she appointed a Steering Committee on Slavery and Justice to examine the university's relationship to the transatlantic slave trade, which became a model for other universities. In 2011, she was the keynote speaker for Emory's Slavery and the University: Histories and Legacies conference.

Coming out of retirement, Simmons served as president of Prairie View A&M from 2017 to 2023 — the first woman to lead the largest HBCU in Texas. She currently serves as President's Distinguished Fellow at Rice University and as adviser to Harvard University's president on HBCU initiatives, among other roles.

Simmons earned her PhD from Harvard in Romance languages and literatures. She is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Philosophical Society and the Council on Foreign Relations.

In 2024, she was awarded the National Humanities Medal in a White House ceremony. Last year, she was given the rank of officer in the French National Order of the Legion of Honor, one of the highest decorations bestowed by the French government.

Ruth J. Simmons will be presented by Kimberly Jacob Arriola, dean of the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies.

SUSAN E. STONE

*Transformative Midwifery Educator, Health Care
Champion, Nursing Luminary
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa*

Certified nurse-midwife and nationally recognized nursing leader Susan E. Stone has made transformative contributions to midwifery, advanced practice nursing, and the improvement of health care for families.

Stone began her career as an obstetrical nurse before earning certification in nurse-midwifery. She practiced as a full-scope nurse-midwife for 10 years, providing comprehensive care to women and families. Recognizing that expanding the midwifery workforce was essential to improving health outcomes, she transitioned into education — dedicating her career to preparing the next generation of nurse-midwives and advanced practice nurses.

From 2001 to 2024, Stone served as president of Frontier Nursing University in Versailles, Kentucky, home to the nation's oldest and largest continuously operating nurse-midwifery education program.

Under her visionary leadership, Frontier sharpened its mission to prepare primary care providers for rural and underserved communities. During her tenure, the institution evolved from offering one community-based certificate program that enrolled approximately 200 students into a fully accredited university offering master's and doctoral degrees. Enrollment expanded to more than 2,500 graduate nursing students, including nurse-midwives and nurse practitioners serving communities across the country.

Stone's national leadership extends well beyond Frontier. She is a past president of the American College of Nurse-Midwives and was inducted into the National Academy of Medicine in 2018 — one of only two nurses selected in her class. She holds a doctor of nursing science degree from the University of Tennessee Health Science Center and is a fellow of the American College of Nurse-Midwives and the American Academy of Nursing.

Now serving as president emerita and Distinguished Chair of Midwifery and Nursing at Frontier, Stone continues to advance midwifery and nursing practice nationally and internationally. The honorary degree recognizes a career devoted to expanding access to high-quality health care and strengthening the nursing and midwifery workforce for generations to come.

Susan E. Stone will be presented by Lisa Muirhead, interim dean of the Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing.

PRESIDENT'S MEDAL

DENNIS C. LIOTTA
RAYMOND F. SCHINAZI
WOO-BAEG CHOI

Life-Saving HIV Researchers, Drug Discoverers, Scientific Torchbearers

First awarded in 1995 to Nobel Laureate His Holiness the Dalai Lama, the Emory University President's Medal honors individuals whose impact has advanced peace, served humanity, and expanded the boundaries of cultural achievement. This year, Emory honors three of its own — Dennis Liotta, Raymond Schinazi and Woo-Baeg Choi — for discoveries that transformed the treatment of HIV worldwide.

In the early 1990s, Liotta, Schinazi, and Choi announced the discovery of an unusual molecule, FTC (emtricitabine, sold alone as Emtriva, with the “Em” standing for Emory), and a chemically similar compound, 3TC (lamivudine, sold alone as Epivir). Both drugs are nucleoside reverse transcriptase inhibitors, which work by blocking the enzyme HIV uses to copy its genetic material and replicate. By interrupting this process, the drugs prevent the virus from multiplying in the body.

These compounds became essential components of combination therapies that markedly improved survival and helped turn HIV from a fatal disease into a manageable chronic condition. It is estimated that more than 90% of people in the United States living with HIV — and millions more worldwide — have taken at least one of these medicines.

Dennis C. Liotta is the Samuel Candler Dobbs Professor of Chemistry at Emory College of Arts and Sciences, as well as a professor of pharmacology and chemical biology. A chemist and drug discovery researcher, he played a central role in designing and developing the compounds that became FTC and 3TC, helping establish the chemical foundation for therapies that reshaped HIV treatment.

Raymond F. Schinazi is the Frances Winship Walters Professor of Pediatrics at Emory School of Medicine and director of the Laboratory of Biochemical Pharmacology. He was involved in the design of FTC and 3TC and helped guide the development of the two molecules into effective antiviral therapies, contributing to advances that extended life expectancy and improved quality of life for patients worldwide. His work also helped demonstrate the power of combination drug therapy in controlling HIV.

Woo-Baeg Choi is a former Emory postdoctoral research associate in the Liotta research laboratory, whose work was essential to the discovery of FTC and 3TC. Working closely with Liotta and Schinazi, he played a key role in synthesizing and refining the compounds that became widely used HIV medicines, helping move them from the laboratory toward clinical use.

Together, Liotta, Schinazi and Choi established a model for how collaborative academic research can improve human health on a global scale. Their work not only reshaped HIV care but also helped position Emory as a leader in drug discovery and biomedical innovation.

Emory College of Arts and Sciences originated from a concern for higher education in a Christian setting on the part of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Chartered in 1836 in Oxford, Georgia, the college was named after John Emory (1789–1835), bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1964 the college at Oxford was named Oxford College of Emory University.

Emory College became Emory University by virtue of a charter granted by the Superior Court of DeKalb County on January 25, 1915. Although classes on the Atlanta campus were begun in the schools of law and theology as early as 1916, the college did not move to Atlanta until 1919. The university now includes nine schools, most tracing their origins to years before the chartering of the university itself. These schools are Emory College and Oxford College (1836), the School of Medicine (1854), Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing (1905), Candler School of Theology (1914), the School of Law (1916), Roberto C. Goizueta Business School (1919), the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies (1919), and Rollins School of Public Health (1990).

The intent of the founders is perpetuated by the university's vision statement: A destination university internationally recognized as an inquiry-driven, ethically engaged, and diverse community, whose members work collaboratively for positive transformation in the world through courageous leadership in teaching, research, scholarship, health care, and social action.

SHORT HISTORY OF COMMENCEMENT AT EMORY

This is Emory's 181st commencement. The exercises witnessed today represent an imposition of medieval academic tradition on an institution that had its roots in the nineteenth-century frontier. The first Emory commencement was held in 1840, four years after Emory College had been chartered and two years after the college's first classes. That first ceremony, however, was without graduating students, as there were no graduates until the following year. Then, as now, sermons and addresses had a central focus in the exercises, though rarely have these addresses been so crucial as in 1849, when all fifteen members of the graduating class were assigned speaking places and spoke for as long as half an hour each.

Early commencement audiences sat for up to four hours in the midsummer heat to listen to the numerous student and faculty orations on such topics as "Our Government Unfavorable to High Attainment in Literature," "Social Equality," and "Modern Refinements." These addresses in the early days were in English, contrary to the practice at many other institutions. As President A. B. Longstreet argued in 1842, speeches in Latin and Greek were "worthy of the name pedantry, and nothing more." In spite of this advice, several later generations of students instructed their audiences in the ancient tongues.

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOMS

Academic dress goes back to the founding of European universities, which were the products of the intellectual revival of the twelfth century. All medieval students were clerks and consequently wore the dress of clergy. This is the academic costume we wear today, with certain changes introduced in the sixteenth century by Protestant reformers. The oldest articles of academic wear were the robe, over which was worn the habit, usually a kind of tunic with short, wide sleeves. The medieval hood was lined with fur or inexpensive skins and could be gathered around the neck or pulled up on the head as a turban. It is uncertain when different colors became associated with different degrees.

There were four kinds of caps: the round cap, reserved for doctoral dignity; the tena, a round cap with strings tied under the chin, worn by jurists; the square cap; and the Tudor bonnet. At Oxford University in 1565 the square cap became the norm, but the faculties that had become laicized adopted the Tudor bonnet that is still worn by doctoral candidates today. The basic design of all academic costume in the United States was first established in 1895 and was first used at Emory by the Class of 1902. The bachelor's gown features an embroidered Emory University seal in gold thread and has long, pointed, open sleeves. The master's gown has longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom with openings about midway for the hands. Beginning in 2014, the bachelor's and master's gowns are made of fabric spun from molten plastic pellets from recycled water bottles. An average of 23 post-consumer plastic bottles are used to create each gown, furthering Emory's commitment to sustainability initiatives. The doctor's gown has full-length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. Tassels for bachelor's and master's caps are black; tassels of gold thread may be worn by doctors. Gowns and caps are usually black, although Emory and some other schools have specified that their doctors may wear gowns of distinctive colors. Yale's deep blue doctoral gown, Harvard's crimson, Columbia's dark blue, and Emory's blue and gold are a few that may be seen in the procession.

The hood varies for the respective degrees, the doctor's hood being longer and fuller than the master's. The field of study can be determined from the velvet facing on the hood according to the following color scheme: white, the arts; gold-yellow, science; purple, law; apricot, nursing; green, medicine; teal, physical therapy; scarlet, theology; salmon, public health; drab (light brown), business; and dark blue, doctors of philosophy. The hood is lined with silk in the colors of the degree-granting institution. For Emory graduates the lining is blue with a chevron of gold.

The president of Emory University wears a badge of office given to the university in 1965 by the Emory chapter, Gamma of Georgia, of Phi Beta Kappa. Designed by Eric Clements of Birmingham, England, and executed by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths in London, the solid gold badge is an open teardrop enclosing the raised seal of the university and is suspended on a gold chain.

COMMENTARY ON COMMENCEMENT

The chief marshal and deputy marshals lead the academic procession. The faculty marshals and the secretary of the university jointly manage the forming of the procession, the seating of commencement participants, and the planning of other aspects of commencement exercises. Marshals are identified by their unique blue tunics, which are sleeveless and lined with gold.

The Commencement stage was named the University Marshals' Stage in honor of the dedication and service provided by Emory's chief marshals throughout history.

The university mace is carried by the immediate past president of the Student Government Association. Academically the mace is the symbol of a university as a corporate body of scholars possessing its own jurisdiction and its own legally constituted authority. Traditionally the mace is borne in procession immediately before the chief officer of a university and is placed before them during formal academic ceremonies.

The mace of Emory University, a gift from D.V.S., an Emory College senior honorary society, also was designed by Clements and executed in silver and gold by the same goldsmiths. In the teardrop at the apex of the mace, against a background of oxidized silver, is a freestanding representation in gold of a human skeleton. This is Dooley, the spirit of Emory, who traditionally "rises" once each spring and for a week rules campus. Immediately below the skeleton, in an open teardrop, is a gold sphere divided (by stippling) into eight segments. Topping the sphere is a simple cross, symbolizing the relationship of Emory University to the Methodist church. The seal of the university is sculptured in gold within the circular base.

Before each school in the procession, the school's student marshal carries its gonfalon, a banner in the color associated with the respective school's degree: medicine, green; public health, salmon; nursing, apricot; theology, scarlet; law, purple; and business, drab (light brown). The gonfalon of the graduate school is gold representing Emory's gold, and the gonfalons of Emory College and Oxford College represent Emory's blue.

EMORY ALUMNI LEGACY MEDALLION

Graduating students who have a parent, grandparent, and/or sibling who is also an Emory graduate are wearing specially commissioned medallions hanging from blue and gold ribbons. The medallions are expressions of the university's gratitude to those families who have chosen to continue the Emory education tradition throughout the generations.
