PRESENTATION OF THE MARION LUTHER BRITTAIN SERVICE AWARD

This award, symbolic of all honors bestowed on students by the university, is an expression of gratitude for service performed without expectation of reward or recognition. The award was established at Emory in 1942 through a bequest from a distinguished Emory alumnus, former President Brittain of the Georgia Institute of Technology.

Amanda Gean Garcia-Williams 09PH 15G

AMANDA GEAN GARCIA-WILLIAMS, A DOCTORAL CANDIDATE IN behavioral sciences and health education in the Rollins School of Public Health, has been named the 2015 Marion Luther Brittain Award recipient.

Garcia-Williams earned her master's degree in public health at Emory while working at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in the Division of Healthcare Quality Promotion. Her abiding interests are in violence and injury prevention, public mental health, and health care quality; these avenues led her to volunteer at Emory and more broadly, not simply to touch individual lives but also to problem-solve for the welfare of the larger community.

The focus of her dissertation was suicide prevention among college students, especially student response to suicidal peers. The university was fortunate to have her expertise when Emory Cares 4 U was created in 2009 to reduce stigma and prevent suicide at Emory. Touched personally by a suicide in her family, Garcia-Williams brought compassion and expertise as a QPR gatekeeper instructor, training students, staff, and faculty how to recognize the warning signs for suicide and refer an individual for professional help. The University of Rochester named Garcia-Williams a scholar with the Virtual Mentoring Network to Enhance Diversity of the Mental Health Research Workforce.

In addition, Garcia-Williams served as a graduate research assistant on Project UPLIFT, a program designed to prevent depression among people with epilepsy. She has donated community time in a variety of ways, from teaching yoga at a local recreation center to serving as a science fair judge at an elementary school. Here at Emory, Garcia-Williams served on the Honorary Degree Committee of the University Senate; the Dissent, Protest, and Community Task Force; the Behavioral Sciences and Health Education Chair Search Committee; the Search Advisory Committee for the new director of Counseling and Psychological Services; and the Committee on Class and Labor.

She has coauthored eight peer-reviewed articles and one book chapter. Garcia-Williams will continue her public health career at the CDC as a Class of 2015 Epidemic Intelligence Service officer.

PRESENTATION OF THE UNIVERSITY SCHOLAR/TEACHER AWARD

Chosen by the university president from nominations by the deans on behalf of the United Methodist Church Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

Thomas G. Long
Bandy Professor of Preaching
Candler School of Theology and Laney Graduate School

TOM LONG, NAMED BY BAYLOR UNIVERSITY IN 1996 AS ONE OF the twelve “most effective preachers in the English-speaking world,” joined the faculty of Candler School of Theology and the Laney Graduate School in 2000. He serves in the Bandy Chair of Preaching, considered by many the premier professorship in homiletics in North America.

In his fifteen years on the faculty, Long has started important conversations about the nature of preaching in a world of rapidly developing technology and global connection. Of his five books, one—What Shall We Say? Evil, Suffering, and the Crisis of Faith—was named Book of the Year in 2011 by the Academy of Parish Clergy, and a second—Preaching from Memory to Hope—was named by the academy as one of the top ten books for clergy in 2009. Preaching magazine called his Witness of Preaching (2010) one of the most influential books on preaching in the previous quarter century. He is an associate editor of the Journal for Preachers and a contributing editor to Christian Century.

Long co-led the university's strategic initiative on Religions and the Human Spirit for several years. From 2010 to 2014 he managed the Initiative in Religious Practices and Practical Theology. This Emory doctoral program, funded by the Lilly Endowment, trains a new generation of ministers and religious leaders in blending the study of theology and ethics with the study of preaching, worship, religious education, and pastoral care. Long is highly sought as a keynote speaker and as a consultant in the art of public speaking.

As a teacher, Long mentors and supports junior faculty across the theological disciplines.

His former graduate students in homiletics serve in tenured appointments in divinity schools across the country. He teaches both the introductory preaching course and advanced electives. As one student has put it, “He is the best preacher I have ever heard, and he can teach it.”

With this award, Emory recognizes Long as the preeminent figure in his field, singularly dedicated to his students, colleagues, and the mission of the university.

PRESENTATION OF THE THOMAS JEFFERSON AWARD

Awarded each year to a faculty member or administrative officer for significant service to the university through personal activities, influence, and leadership.

Bobbi Patterson 94PhD
Professor of Pedagogy and Associate Director of Graduate Studies
Graduate Division of Religion
Emory College of Arts and Sciences

BOBBI PATTERSON'S MANIFOLD CONTRIBUTIONS TO EMORY TOUCH every facet of the university's mission, but she has had her greatest impact as a scholar who blends learning and service. In her thirty-four years at Emory, she has immersed both students and colleagues in life-changing experiences.

Patterson came to Emory as associate university chaplain in 1981 and later served for a year as interim dean of students in the Division of Campus Life. She chaired the transformative Task Force on Security and Responsibility in 1990; served as the first chair of the Committee on Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual Life; founded the influential Theory-Practice Learning Program; directed the Emory Scholars Program; founded the Emory as Place Initiative; was a cofounding chair and member of the Lecture Track Policy Committee; and served on the President's Task Force on Dissent, Protest, and Community in 2011–2012. So many offices at Emory—the Ethics Center, Sustainability Initiatives, University-Community Partnerships, and the Emory-Tibet Partnership—would not be what they are without her influence.

Her innovative approaches to pedagogy have long combined expertise from contemplative practices, conflict resolution, and environmental sustainability. Given the breadth of Patterson's interests, it is fitting that she has lent her administrative gifts to the Graduate Division of Religion, an interdisciplinary program that engages a broad range of scholarly interests.

Patterson earned a PhD from the Laney Graduate School in 1994. In frequent demand as a speaker at academic conferences and retreats, she is also an ordained priest in the Episcopal Church. She has authored more than twenty-five articles and an array of book chapters and reviews, and she has a book manuscript under consideration by Shambala Press, Building a Fire for Service: Contemplative and Resilience Approaches.

In addition to receiving the Award for Excellence in Teaching from the American Academy of Religion in 2011, she earned the Emory Williams Award for Distinguished Teaching in 2014.

HONORARY DEGREES

SHIRLEY FRANKLIN
*Community Leader and Former Atlanta Mayor
Doctor of Laws, honoris causa*

SHIRLEY FRANKLIN WAS ELECTED THE FIRST AFRICAN AMERICAN female mayor of a major Southern city in 2001. She previously had served on the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games and as Atlanta's commissioner of cultural affairs and, later, city manager. During her eight years as mayor, Franklin collaborated with many local and regional leaders in addressing the challenges of metro-regional planning, economic development, and infrastructure replacement. She earned acclaim for advocating ethics reform, overhauling municipal government financial and management operations, and adopting multiple-year budget practices. Her administration launched the Atlanta BeltLine initiative, planned and executed improvements to the city's airport and water infrastructure, developed successful business and public sector partnerships and alliances, and created the Atlanta Regional Commission on Homelessness. Mayor Franklin led the city in acquiring the papers of Martin Luther King Jr. now housed at Morehouse College.

Franklin is currently the chair of the National Center for Civil and Human Rights and serves as chair and chief executive officer of Purpose Built Communities. She is president of Clarke-Franklin and Associates, and cochair of the United Way of Greater Atlanta's Regional Commission on Homelessness. Her distinguished community leadership includes service on the boards of United Way of Greater Atlanta, Delta Air Lines, Mueller Water Products, and the Volcker Alliance.

Franklin earned a bachelor of arts degree in sociology from Howard University and a master of arts degree in sociology from the University of Pennsylvania. She is currently the Barbara Jordan Visiting Professor of Ethics and Political Values at the Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas at Austin.

A contributor to several books, Franklin is in frequent demand as a speaker and has been featured in numerous publications. In 2005, Time magazine named her one of the top five mayors in the country, and US News & World Report listed her as one of "America's Best Leaders." She is a recipient of the 2005 John F. Kennedy Profile in Courage Award.

Mayor Franklin will be presented by the dean of Emory School of Law, Robert Schapiro.

BILLY E. FRYE 54G 56PHD
*Alumnus, Educator, and Renowned Administrator
Doctor of Letters, honoris causa*

AMONG BILLY E. FRYE'S HIGHEST PRIORITIES DURING HIS TENURE as Emory's first provost, and later chancellor, was maintaining a sense of community in the face of the university's rapid physical and programmatic expansion. An Emory alumnus, Frye returned to Emory in 1986 to become dean of the graduate school and vice president for research, and he was named provost and vice president for academic affairs two years later. He devoted countless hours over several years to conversations with stakeholders in the Emory community, setting goals and guidelines for Emory to know itself and prepare for its future. The document that resulted, Choices and Responsibility (1994), served as a roadmap for a critical time in Emory's history.

During the 1980s and 1990s, an era of retrenchment in research libraries across the country, Frye became recognized as a national spokesperson and vital leader in the preparation for a digital future. He also helped bring to public attention the imminent disintegration of millions of books printed on paper made mostly from wood pulp, and the need for libraries to address these losses through digitization. His leadership was recognized by the naming of the Frye Institute in his honor, a joint ten-year program sponsored by Emory and the Washington, D.C.-based Council on Library and Information Resources to train academic administrators in the integration of libraries and information technology.

Frye's stellar ability as an administrator was complemented by a reputation for rock-like character and integrity, which earned him the trust and confidence of those with whom he worked. His servant-leadership was marked by strength, vision, and grace.

In 1997 Frye received Emory's Thomas Jefferson Award for significant service to Emory through personal activities, influence, and leadership. Emory also awarded Frye the Emory Medal and recognized him as one of its 175 Makers of History during the 175th anniversary celebration in 2011. In 1991 he received an honorary degree from the University of Michigan, where he had served for twenty-five years, according to the citation, with "great distinction" and "national stature" as a biology professor, graduate school dean, and provost.

Dr. Frye will be presented by the dean of the Laney Graduate School, Lisa Tedesco.

R. RANDALL ROLLINS
*Business Leader and Philanthropist
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa*

R. RANDALL ROLLINS, A GENEROUS AND GENERATIVE philanthropist in his own right, is a scion of the renowned Rollins family, whose benefactions to Emory for more than four decades have had a transformative impact on the university. The family's interest in Emory began with its patriarch, O. Wayne Rollins, a self-made business leader and innovator, who with his wife, Grace Rollins, founded a center for ministry in Candler School of Theology and helped to establish the Rollins School of Public Health. Following Wayne's death, in 1991, his sons, Randall and Gary, have continued to build the Rollins companies and provide leadership and support to Emory.

Since 1991, Randall Rollins has served as chair of the board of Rollins, a premier global consumer and commercial services company. Through its wholly owned subsidiaries, including Orkin, the company provides pest control and protection services to more than two million customers on five continents. Randall Rollins is also chair of the board of Marine Products Corporation and RPC, an oil and gas services company that provides a broad range of specialized oilfield services and equipment to the industry. He has been a director of Dover Motorsports since 1996 and a director of Dover Downs Gaming & Entertainment since 2002. He was a director of SunTrust Bank from 1995 to 2004.

Created in 1967, the O. Wayne Rollins Foundation continues the mission of four generations of the Rollins family to support medical research and public health programs at colleges and universities. In addition to the Rollins School of Public Health, Randall Rollins's philanthropy at Emory has included gifts to the Robert W. Woodruff Health Sciences Center, Emory School of Medicine, the Winship Cancer Institute, Yerkes National Primate Research Center, and Candler School of Theology. He and his brother, Gary, are Emory's most generous living donors. Randall also has given time and service at the highest levels, as a member of the Emory University Board of Trustees (1988–2001), the Woodruff Health Sciences Center Board (1988–2001; vice chair 1990–2001), the Finance Committee (1988–1994), and the Executive Committee (1991–1994), becoming emeritus trustee in 2001. His commitment to public health has led to tremendous advancements in research, the recruitment of outstanding faculty leaders, and recognition of the Rollins School in just a quarter of a century of existence as one of the world's most successful schools of public health.

Mr. Rollins will be presented by the dean of the Rollins School of Public Health, James Curran.

SALMAN RUSHDIE

*Author, Professor, and Human Rights Advocate
Doctor of Letters, honoris causa*

A LITERARY MASTER OF TOWERING ACHIEVEMENT, SALMAN RUSHDIE is also a powerful symbol of free expression and of the imperative to protect human rights. As a University Distinguished Professor at Emory, he has formed deep connections with the university while also attracting recognition to the broader eminence of Emory's creative writing program and its robust collection of papers of distinguished authors and poets.

Knighted in 2007 by Queen Elizabeth II for his service to literature, Sir Salman is the author of the novels Grimus, Shame, The Satanic Verses, Haroun and the Sea of Stories, and Luka and the Fire of Life, among others. His second novel, Midnight's Children, was awarded the 1981 Booker Prize (called the Man Booker Prize since 2002), and in both 1993 and 2008 (the twenty-fifth and fortieth anniversaries of the prize's inception) was proclaimed by judges to be the best-ever winner of the prize. He has also published a book of stories and three works of nonfiction. He is the coeditor of Mirrorwork, an anthology of contemporary Indian writing, and of the 2008 Best American Short Stories anthology. His books have been translated into more than forty languages, and a film of Midnight's Children, directed by Deepa Mehta, was released in 2012. His most recent book is the autobiographical Joseph Anton: A Memoir, which draws on his papers and computer files housed in Emory's Manuscript, Archives, and Rare Book Library.

A fellow of the British Royal Society of Literature, Rushdie has received nearly every literary award in the English-speaking world, including the Whitbread Prize for Best Novel, the Writers Guild Award, the James Tait Black Prize, the European Union's Aristeion Prize for Literature, the London International Writers Award, the James Joyce Award of University College Dublin, the Carl Sandburg Prize of the Chicago Public Library, and a US National Arts Award. In addition to his British knighthood, he holds the rank of commandeur in the Ordre des Arts et des Lettres, France's highest artistic honor. In 2008, he was inducted as a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Sir Salman will be presented by the dean of Emory College of Arts and Sciences, Robin Forman.

EMORY COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES ORIGINATED FROM a concern for higher education in a Christian setting on the part of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Chartered in 1836 in Oxford, Georgia, the college was named after John Emory (1789–1835), bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1964 the college at Oxford was named Oxford College of Emory University.

Emory College became Emory University by virtue of a charter granted by the Superior Court of DeKalb County on January 25, 1915. Although classes on the Atlanta campus were begun in the schools of law and theology as early as 1916, the college did not move to Atlanta until 1919. The university now includes nine schools, most tracing their origins to years before the chartering of the university itself. These schools are Emory College and Oxford College (1836), the School of Medicine (1854), Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing (1905), Candler School of Theology (1914), the School of Law (1916), Roberto C. Goizueta Business School (1919), the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies (1919), and Rollins School of Public Health (1990).

The intent of the founders is perpetuated by the university's vision statement: A destination university internationally recognized as an inquiry-driven, ethically engaged, and diverse community, whose members work collaboratively for positive transformation in the world through courageous leadership in teaching, research, scholarship, health care, and social action.

A SHORT HISTORY ON COMMENCEMENT AT EMORY

This is Emory's 170th commencement. The exercises witnessed today represent an imposition of medieval academic tradition on an institution that had its roots in the nineteenth-century frontier. The first Emory commencement was held in 1840, four years after Emory College had been chartered and two years after the college's first classes. That first ceremony, however, was without graduating students, as there were no graduates until the following year. Then, as now, sermons and addresses had a central focus in the exercises, though rarely have these addresses been so crucial as in 1849, when all fifteen members of the graduating class were assigned speaking places and spoke for as long as half an hour each.

Early commencement audiences sat for up to four hours in the midsummer heat to listen to the numerous student and faculty orations on such topics as "Our Government Unfavorable to High Attainment in Literature," "Social Equality," and "Modern Refinements." These addresses in the early days were in English, contrary to the practice at many other institutions. As President A. B. Longstreet argued in 1842, speeches in Latin and Greek were "worthy of the name pedantry, and nothing more." In spite of this advice, several later generations of students instructed their audiences in the ancient tongues.

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOMS

Academic dress goes back to the founding of European universities, which were the products of the intellectual revival of the twelfth century. All medieval students were clerks and consequently wore the dress of clergy. This is the academic costume we wear today, with certain changes introduced in the sixteenth century by Protestant reformers. The oldest articles of academic wear were the robe, over which was worn the habit, usually a kind of tunic with short, wide sleeves. The medieval hood was lined with fur or inexpensive skins and could be gathered around the neck or pulled up on the head as a turban. It is uncertain when different colors became associated with different degrees.

There were four kinds of caps: the round cap, reserved for doctoral dignity; the tena, a round cap with strings tied under the chin, worn by jurists; the square cap; and the Tudor bonnet. At Oxford University in 1565 the square cap became the norm, but the faculties that had become laicized adopted the Tudor bonnet that is still worn by doctoral candidates today. The basic design of all academic costume in the United States was first established in 1895 and was first used at Emory by the Class of 1902. The bachelor's gown features an embroidered Emory University seal in gold thread and has long, pointed, open sleeves. The master's gown has longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom with openings about midway for the hands. Beginning in 2014, the bachelor's and master's gowns are made of fabric spun from molten plastic pellets from recycled water bottles. An average of twenty-three post-consumer plastic bottles are used to create each gown, furthering Emory's commitment to sustainability initiatives. The doctor's gown has full-length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. Tassels for bachelor's and master's caps are black; tassels of gold thread may be worn by doctors. Gowns and caps are usually black, although Emory and some other schools have specified that their doctors may wear gowns of distinctive colors. Yale's deep blue doctoral gown, Harvard's crimson, Columbia's dark blue, and Emory's blue and gold are a few that may be seen in the procession.

The hood varies for the respective degrees, the doctor's hood being longer and fuller than the master's. The field of study can be determined from the velvet facing on the hood according to the following color scheme: white, the arts; gold-yellow, science; purple, law; apricot, nursing; green, medicine; teal, physical therapy; scarlet, theology; salmon, public health; drab, business; and dark blue, doctors of philosophy. The hood is lined with silk in the colors of the degree-granting institution. For Emory graduates the lining is blue with a chevron of gold.

The president of Emory University wears a badge of office given to the university in 1965 by the Emory chapter, Gamma of Georgia, of Phi Beta Kappa. Designed by Eric Clements of Birmingham, England, and executed by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths in London, the solid gold badge is an open teardrop enclosing the raised seal of the university and is suspended on a gold chain.

The chief marshal and deputy marshals lead the academic procession. The faculty marshals and the secretary of the university jointly manage the forming of the procession, the seating of commencement participants, and the planning of other aspects of commencement exercises. Marshals are identified by their unique blue tunics, which are sleeveless and lined with gold.

The Quadrangle stage with blue canopy was named the University Marshals' Stage in honor of the dedication and service provided by Emory's chief marshals throughout history.

The university mace is carried in the procession by the immediate past president of the Student Government Association. Academically the mace is the symbol of a university as a corporate body of scholars possessing its own jurisdiction and its own legally constituted authority. Traditionally the mace is borne in procession immediately before the chief officer of a university and is placed before him or her during formal academic ceremonies.

The mace of Emory University, a gift from D.V.S., an Emory College senior honor society, was designed by Eric Clements and executed in silver and gold by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths. In the teardrop at the apex of the mace, against a background of oxidized silver, is a freestanding representation in gold of a human skeleton. This is Dooley, the "spirit" of Emory, who traditionally "rises" once each spring and for a week rules campus. Immediately below the skeleton, in an open teardrop, is a gold sphere divided (by stippling) into eight segments. Topping the sphere is a simple cross, symbolizing the relationship of Emory University to the Methodist church. The seal of the university is sculptured in gold within the circular base.

Before each school in the procession, the school's student marshal carries its gonfalon, a banner in the color associated with the respective school's degree: medicine, green; public health, salmon; nursing, apricot; theology, scarlet; law, purple; and business, drab. The gonfalon of the graduate school is gold representing Emory's gold, and the gonfalons of Emory College and Oxford College represent Emory's blue.

EMORY ALUMNI LEGACY MEDALLION

Graduating students who have a parent, grandparent, and/or sibling who is also an Emory graduate are wearing specially commissioned medallions hanging from blue and gold ribbons. The medallions are expressions of the university's gratitude to those families who have chosen to continue the Emory education tradition throughout the generations.

It may seem like a time warp. Four years after Emory celebrated its 175th anniversary in 2011, the university this year marks its centennial. The explanation is simple. One hundred years have passed since Emory acquired a new charter as a university and established a new campus, in Atlanta. Since 1915 Emory and Atlanta have grown together and helped to shape each other in ways unimaginable a century ago. During 2015 the university will commemorate the transformation that began in 1915, as a small college began its progress toward becoming a major liberal arts research university.

THE COMMENCEMENT SETTING

Spectators on the Quadrangle are seated facing the former Pitts Theology Library, one of the two oldest buildings on the Atlanta campus. Designed by the distinguished Pittsburgh architect Henry Hornbostel (1867–1961), the Old Theology Building was the original theology building in 1916. It was renovated in 1975 by architect Paul Rudolph to house the expanded library collection of Candler School of Theology.

Directly behind the spectators are Carlos Hall, the other original campus building, and the expanded Michael C. Carlos Museum. Formerly home to the School of Law, Carlos Hall was renovated in 1986 according to a design by Michael Graves to house the museum and the Department of Art History. The museum is named for the philanthropist who donated most of the cost of the facility. It was designed to maintain the classic symmetry and proportion of the surrounding buildings, which are listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Bowden Hall, east of the museum, was constructed in 1951 in the same style as the original campus buildings. Originally the History Building, it was renamed in 1991 in honor of the late Henry L. Bowden, former chair of the Board of Trustees of Emory University. To the southeast of Bowden Hall is the Center for Library and Information Resources. The center joins the tall, red-tile-crowned Robert W. Woodruff Library and is linked to the Asa Griggs Candler Memorial Library at the east end of the Quadrangle. Candler Library was dedicated in 1926 in honor of the man who donated the land for the campus and who provided the university with strong leadership in its early years.

Next to the Old Theology Building is the Loula Walker and Ely Reeves Callaway Sr. Memorial Center. Thanks to a generous gift from alumnus Ely R. Callaway Jr. in honor of his parents, this center joins the former Humanities Building with the original Physics Building, which was constructed in 1919.

At the west end of the Quadrangle is the Administration Building (1955), a gift of Charles Howard Candler. Like his father, Asa, Charles chaired the Board of Trustees for many years. Between the Administration Building and the former Pitts Library sits the more modern White Hall, the main classroom building of Emory College. Above the trees on the north side of the Quadrangle are the curved red roof of the William R. Cannon Chapel—designed by Paul Rudolph and dedicated in 1981—and the towers of Emory University Hospital to the east.
